2	4	1	3		Under Capital Campaign: We did this a while ago for a new location to purchase. I know RE and Child care struggle with their situation now. I think we would need to have ad significant growth of membership & revenue to rent a different space. Under Minister: I used to think a minister was a necessity to attract new members but I feel like the speakers we have are great. If we need someone with a dynamic personality who could lead us and inspire us fine. I wonder if the worship committee is overworked and if that situation would improve if we had a minister.

1	5	3	4	2	Music Budget - we really can't hire a good music director/choir director. We can't get a volunteer (or volunteers) to run the worship committee then hiring would be the way to go. I feel strongly that great and inspiring speaker are far more important to this small congregation than a RE director.

 Hiring a worship coordinator may be a first step to hiring a minister. Also, we may want to consider renting a location either as a church or as a meeting place. My question is: "would having our church in a high foot traffic location help attract people?"

 I see part time for worship coordinator as top priority. Worship committee is running out of gas I fear, (Next to Minister check box: NO)
 I think finding a space of our own in critical, but don't think it's feasible right now at our current size. And we've tried a minister 2x and it doesn't work. The congregation likes the variety of different speakers.

 My opinions change frequently! I can see some advantages of a new space and having a minister. However I do enjoy the barn.
